

Abstract of the Disclosure:

A microroughness on a surface is produced in a single process step by forming semiconductor grains directly from a process gas. The semiconductor grains are finely distributed on the 5 surface. As a result of forming the microroughness in a single process step, time and costs are saved during fabrication.

1060901
DISCLOSURE NO. 070056

MB/tk